Red Dolan's "Madness"

One day, "Red" Dolan was seen at the golf club strapping on a pair of snowshoes!

When some of Red's friends heard about it, they began joking "madness." But I figured Red must have had a reason for donning snowshoes, so I asked him about it.

"Well," said Red, "You know that marsh near the 14th hole, Joe. A lot of the boys slice golf balls right into there and lose 'em for good. So I just put on my snowshoes — they let me travel on top of that spongy marsh surface without sinking in — and retrieve those lost balls. You should have seen my last haul — enough to play all season with."

From where I sit, people often form opinions about things before they have all the facts. Some folks, for example, have a reason at all, ... Price a beer to some other ... It's just a matter of ... to think otherwise is just plain intolerant. And it's a sure way to "shoe" away friends.

Responding to God

Lesson for October 30, 1960

GOD is to be believed in, trusted, adored. This is true, but not the whole truth. If the faith and trust and adoration stop right there, if they never lead to anything else, then they are no longer what they ought to be. A certain man used to go on a binge periodically, and at the height of one (or the bottom of it!) used to send his wife a large box of roses with an adoring note. He may have meant it; but he was a bad husband. His "adoration" of his wife made no real difference with his life. He was the same booze-hound after his marriage as before, just the same irresponsible play-boy as always. On the bank of a southern river there is a kind of concrete wall, several yards long but not connected with any kind of building. That wall was originally intended to support an end of a bridge; but the bridge was never built, so the concrete abutment stands there, in the way of the farmer who plows that riverside field. So "faith" in God, if it leads to nothing, is like that bridgepier, only a nuisance. As James put it, faith without works is dead.

Response

The life of the Christian is not, so to speak, something which the Christian himself starts and keeps going by himself. It is the teaching of the Bible from beginning to end, that the right life is a life of response. God takes the initiative; we follow his lead. God invites, we accept. God speaks, we answer. Someone has said that the single force back of a Christian's life is gratitude. Some people get that backwards. Their picture of the Christian life is: first man does something fine that God notices; second, God is grateful to the man for the fine thing he has done; third, God showers blessings on the man by way of thanks to him. No, it is actually the other way around. First, God does so much for a man (especially through Christ's sacrificial life and death) that the man notices this; second, the man is grateful to God for his inexpressible gifts; third, the man offers God his life in service, not at all by way of rewarding God, not in the least as laying a claim on God, but out of love and a thankful heart.

The first way this response of man will show, is in his sense of responsibility. He recognizes God as the director and guide of his life, he thinks first of alle not "What will people think of me?" but "What will God think of me?" (This does not come suddenly, it is a habit of mind that has to be learned.) Martin Niemoeller, a German minister who had been a naval officer, explained how it was that he could have "bucked" the all-powerful Hitler and so risked death. "It was simple," Niemoeller said afterwards. "I had a higher Fuehrer than Hitler." That is responsibility, Christian responsibility, taking orders from God first, above all others.

As a sense of responsibility grows, character grows with it. A man does not acquire character by thinking about it. The best way to become a Christian character is not to set aside certain times each week for practice, as you might practice baseball or chess.

Responsibility and Service

In Old Testament times, people made sacrifices by destroying the, thing they sacrificed, or at least by withdrawing it from ordinary use. Paul sets out (in Romans 12) the new Christian idea. We understand now that to sacrifice something to God means to put it to use for him. When Paul spoke of our bodies as a "living sacrifice," no doubt some of the Christians at Rome may have wondered if he could mean human sacrifices on altars. But of course he did not. Anyone who will take time to read Romans 12 can see how down-to-earth all this is. Paul does not concentrate the reader's mind on great crises, extraordinary one-in-a-lifetime opportunities for heroism and martyrdom. He speaks of the ordinary everyday wear and tear of living with other people. Do you love and adore God? Then show you mean it by the Christian way you live with other people.

Big Vote Asked For In Tuesday's Election

Polling places will be open from 6 A. M. to 6 P. M. next Tuesday, in Appomattox County Tuesday, as local voters cast their ballots in the national Presidential election.

There will be three ballots. One will be the big Presidential ballot. A second will be for the election of a United States Senator and Congressman from the Fourth District. For these two offices, the incumbents, Senator A. Willis Robertson and Representative Watkins M. Abbitt are virtually certain to win.

The third ballot is on two amendments to the Virginia Constitution. It is presumed that both will be approved.

State Senator Chas. T. Moses today made an urgent appeal to local voters to go the polls. He asked for a big vote in Appomattox. It is understood that well over 100 applications for mail ballots have been received here.

Rep. Abbitt To Speak To Woman's Club

The Woman's Club of Appomattox will meet Monday afternoon, November 7, at 3:16, at the Appomattox Elementary School. Representative Watkins M. Abbit will be the guest speaker.

The program is being presented by the Public Affairs and Education Department, of which Mrs. Harold Y. Spencer is chairman. Hostesses will be: Mesdames John S. Grinels, Charles R. Thomas, Charles D. Hill, W. E. Ferrell and Frances McDearmon Cheatham.

The Thanksgiving Day Communion will be observed at the morning worship hour, with the Sanctuary Choir presenting special music. This service will initiate the sixth month of the Virginia Conference Annual Year. The Communion message by the minister will be: "Untapped Spiritual Power." This is the second in a series of Pre-Advent sermons on the Six Steps into real Christian living. The Communion Offering will be received for welfare and relief purposes of the church.

The Methodist ministers of the Appomattox Zone will meet Saturday at 9:30 o'clock, in special prayer vigil for the approaching Evangelistic Visitation to be carried on in the churches during December.

Street Lights Turned On In Village of Evergreen

The delightful old Virginia community of Evergreen, has once again shown a wonderful spirit of civic cooperation.

Some time ago, the Evergreen Ruritan Club chose street lights as a club project.

A careful study and survey was made by the club's committee.

Progress on this project was slow at first, but as new homes continued to be built, the need for street lights became more evident. Increased interest was shown by club members, as well as by other citizens of the area.

Today we are happy to report that modern street lights have been installed throughout the village, and that "lights are gone on" in Evergreen!

A. H. S. to Play RoanokeSchool

The Appomattox Rebels who are showing great improvement each week will meet a good football team from Roanoke in Roanoke Catholic here Friday night at 8:00 P. M. The boys have played very good football the last two weeks and they hope to keep up the fine brand of play for this week's game. Victories have been very small for the past few games and it is hoped that the crowds will pick up since the boys are playing very much better ball than they did the first of the season.

Last week the Rebels downed Gretna by a 6 to 0 score. This was a well played game by both schools. Johnny Canada in the last quarter made a fine run of 75 yards to score the only touchdown of the game. On defense, Donald Baldwin, Gerald Leffers, Donald Zenter, Freddie Carter, Dickie Guill, Bobby Williams, and Harold Conner were outstanding. All the boys played well together and they are making less and less mistakes.

Come out Friday night at 8:00 p. m. and see a good game and support your local high school team.

AUCTION SALE SATURDAY AT TOWN BALL PARK

Fred Jones, president of the Appomattox Young Farmers Club, announced that things seems to be shaping up very fast for the Auction Sale set for this Saturday. The sale is scheduled for 10 A. M. in the Town Ball Park. Sonny Monroe, of Rustburg is the auctioneer. Anyone with anything to sell is invited to bring it in to the ball park on Saturday morning. Commission for selling items will be 10 per cent on items up to $100 and 5 per cent on items over $100. This is a change in the announced commission in earlier advertisements. The club met on Friday night of last week and decided on this change, along with other final details.

The club conceived of the Auction Sale idea as a community project which would let many people attempt to sell items that they otherwise have a difficult time in selling. For further information on the sale, contact one of the club members, or their advisor, W. Lewis Motley.

The committee working in close connection with the sale is composed of Fred Jones, Richard Kranz, Bill Williamson, Calvin Harris, Jimmy Drinkard, Albert Harvey and Lewis Motley. A partial list of items to be sold will be found elsewhere in this paper.

APPLE HAVEST UNDERWAY IN STATE

Virginia apple harvest time is here, again and from the first of September until about the first of November, some 10 million bushels of apples will be taken from state orchards, says Fred R. Dreiling, of the VPI horticultural department.

Some of the homegrown varieties available in stores throughout the state are Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Staymen, and Winesap.

Part of the crop now being harvested will be held in prime condition in cold storage. According to Dreiling, Virginia has one of the largest cold storage industries in the world.

When keeping apples in the home, they may shrivel as air removes moisture from the fruit. An occasional soaking in water will prevent much of this shriveling, the specialist advises. He says apples should be kept in a cool place, but kept from freezing.

Vera Hallowe'en Festival
